PREPARE TO DRIFT ON HALIFAX VEIN

CARLOAD OF ORE, INCIDENTALLY EXTRACTED, GOES TO THE MILL

No winze work from the 1200 level of the Halifax has taken place in the past several days, because of cutting of station and the placing of timbers above. It is of great interest, how ever, to learn that the crosscut is now through the vein. It shows the entire dimensions of the working face.

Within a few days a west drift will be started on the vein. As soon as the station is completed a hoist will be installed. The power used at first will be compressed air. Work can then progress in both drifting and saking, with indications that no waste will be removed, at least not for some time.

In the work of preparation which is going forward a considerable amount of ore has been extracted and is of excellent grade. A shipment of a little over 50 tons went forward yes-

On the 1700 level no tock is now being broken, but a cold water pipe has been installed. Air connections with adjoining workings will be completed in about five months on the twelfth level, which will continue its crosscut.
